NexisUni

NexisUni is an electronic resource from the Lexis Nexis Corporation. It is a major resource for national and international newspapers, business, and legal information.

1: Locating NexisUni on the NWC Library Homepage

https://www.usnwc.edu

Enter the Library Homepage using the link for the Learning Commons or Blackboard.

Click into the Databases A-Z link

Click into “N” on the Databases A-Z list and select NexisUni
News Sources: NexisUni

2: Doing a Guided Subject Search in a Particular Newspaper

Select the button for “A Publication.”

Type a keyword, article title, or a personal name in this search box

Begin typing in the publication name, then select the correct publication title from the NexisUni list that will auto-fill below

Select the correct publication title from the list

The Washington Post will move into the publication box
3: Sorting Search Results

The default sort is by relevance. Use the drop-down menu at the top-right of the results list to select to sort by document title or date.

4: Using Documents

When an item is open in full document view, there are options available for using the document.

Tips:

- When you email an article to yourself, the citation will be at the very end of the attachment.
- Permalinks will only remain stable for two years. If you want to use the article in a syllabus again, check the link.

Contact: libref@usnwc.edu